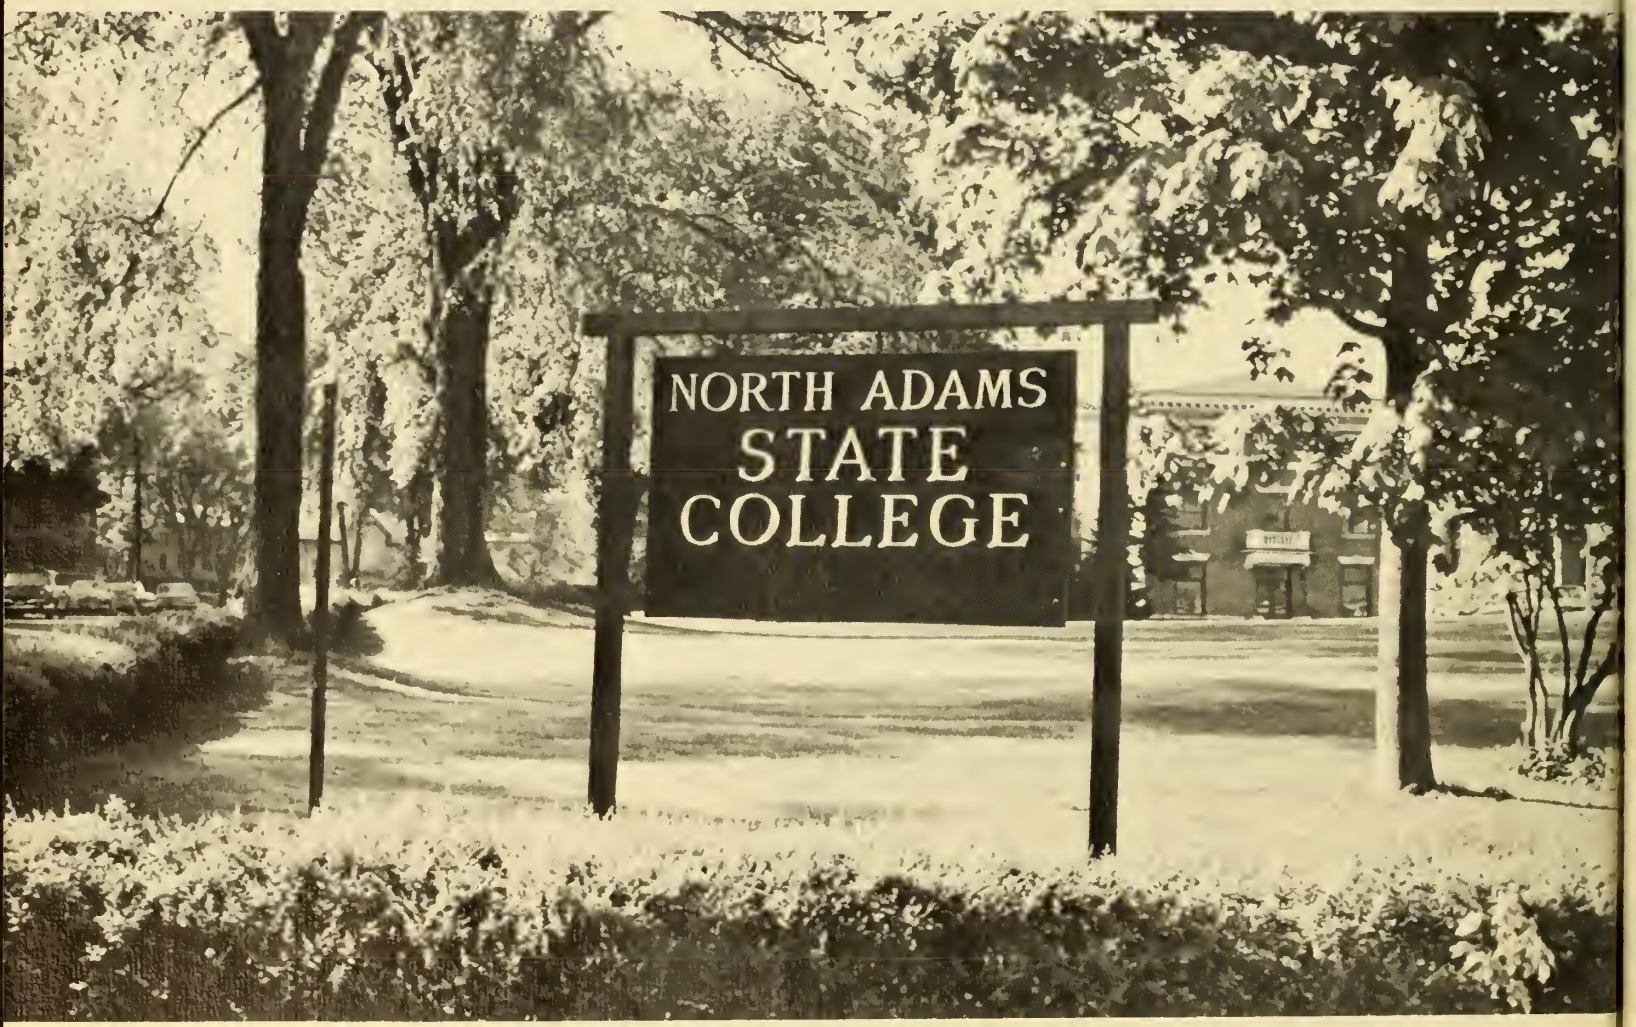
WE MADE IT!



At last,

the long-awaited taste of honey—

COLLEGE

But wait—

what are we doing here, in the midst of a multitude of strange faces

and unfamiliar places?

We're

in college,

but why?

To learn, they say, the almighty they who will be our guides and our tormentors . . . who will guide our learning and,

some hope, our lives

Who are we?

Where are we headed?

Somewhere out there are the answers . . .

Equipped with beanies

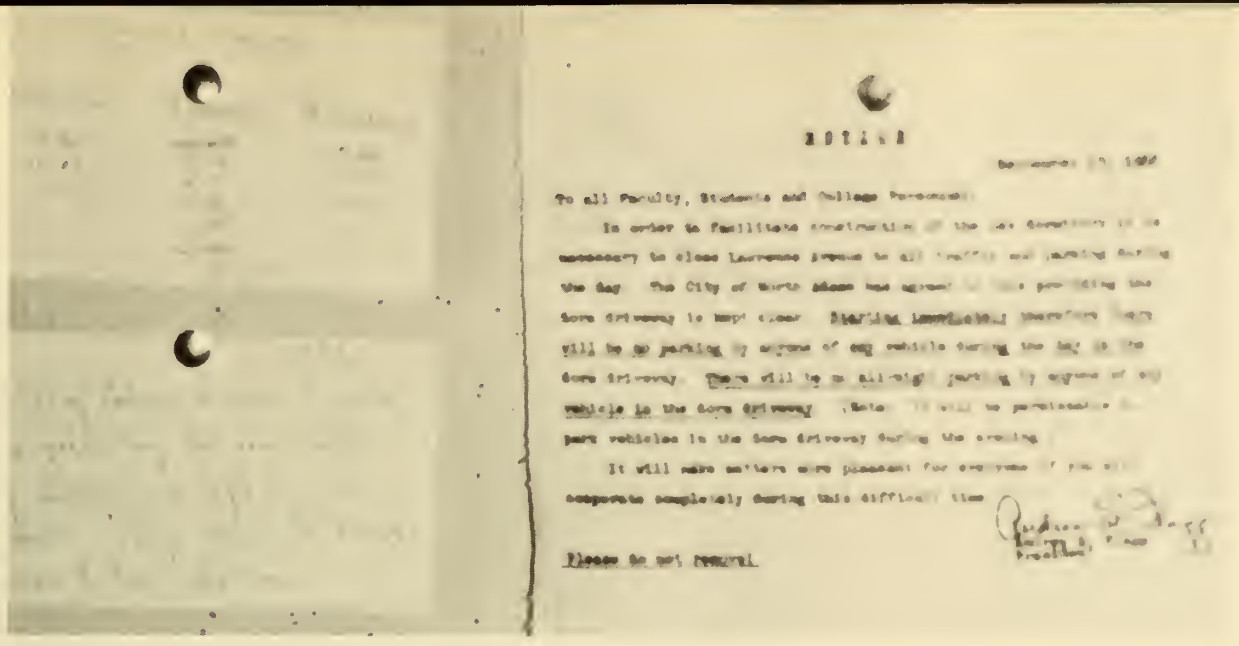
and handbooks

we venture forth to learn

of fees and forms,

upperclassmen,

of waiting, traditions court,



To all Faculty, Students and College Personnel:

In order to facilitate construction of the new dormitory it is necessary to close Lawrence Avenue to all traffic and parking during the day. The City of North Adams has agreed to this providing the dorm driveway is kept clear. Starting [illegible] there will be no parking by anyone of any vehicle during the day in the dorm driveway. There will be no overnight parking by anyone of any vehicle in the dorm driveway. [illegible] will be permissable to park vehicles in the dorm driveway during the evening.

It will make matters more pleasant for everyone if you will cooperate completely during this difficult time.

Please do not remove.

of dorm rules, and textbooks—

Books to look at,

thumb through,

sometimes to read

Professors

to observe,

to listen to,

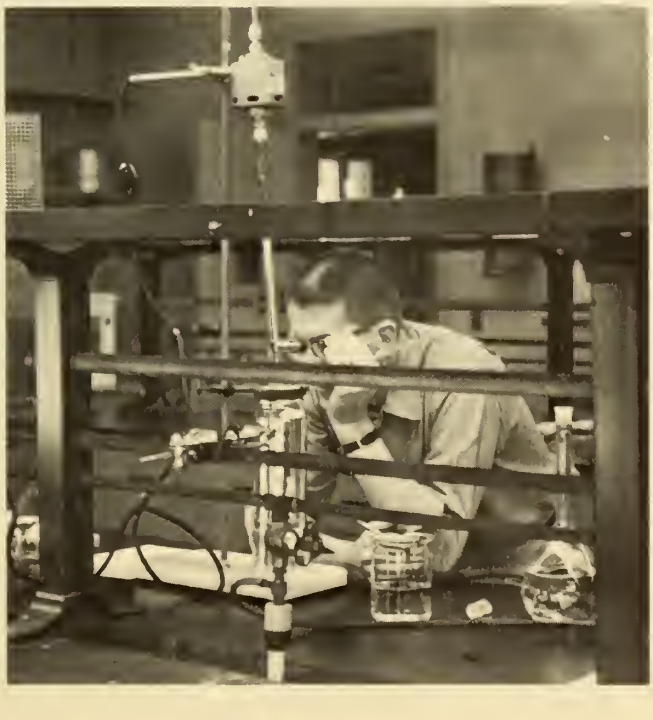
to bore us and inspire us.

Flitting from course

to course we glean

bits and pieces

of fact and fancy, wit and wisdom



. . . and so we learn,

not only from books

but from

DANCES, filled with fun and work,

a tissue-paper world of flowers,

crepe paper, chicken wire, beads,

and most of all . . .

sharing our successes

and our failures . . .

Sharing our lives—

for some this means sharing with roommates, secret santas, slaves, and housemothers,

the dress-up suppers, rattling pipes,

Hell Nights,

Dorm Formals—

For others it means

sharing parking space

with too many other

cars,

and

coffee,

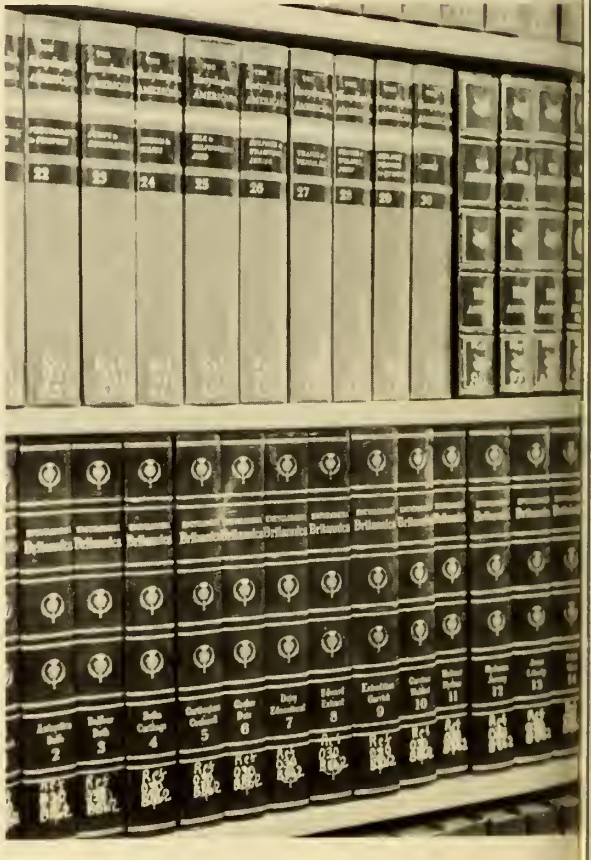
coke,

and conversation in the cafe

between classes—

for all it is a little

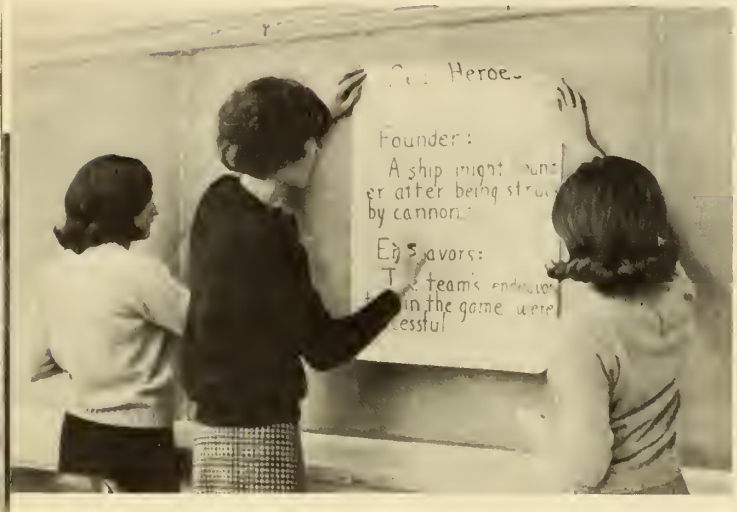
part of the learning,



the everlasting learning . . .

learning to

question—



the textbooks,

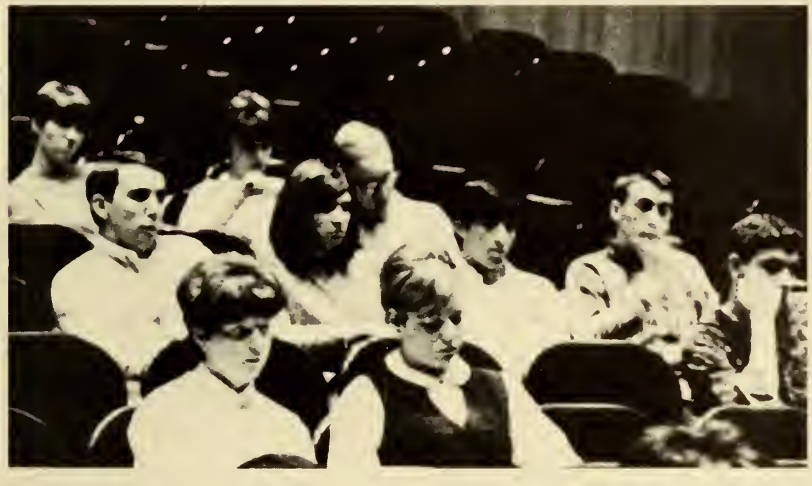
the experts,

ourselves,

the rules.

"leaders of tomorrow"

they call us—



what does that make us today?

Searching, probing,

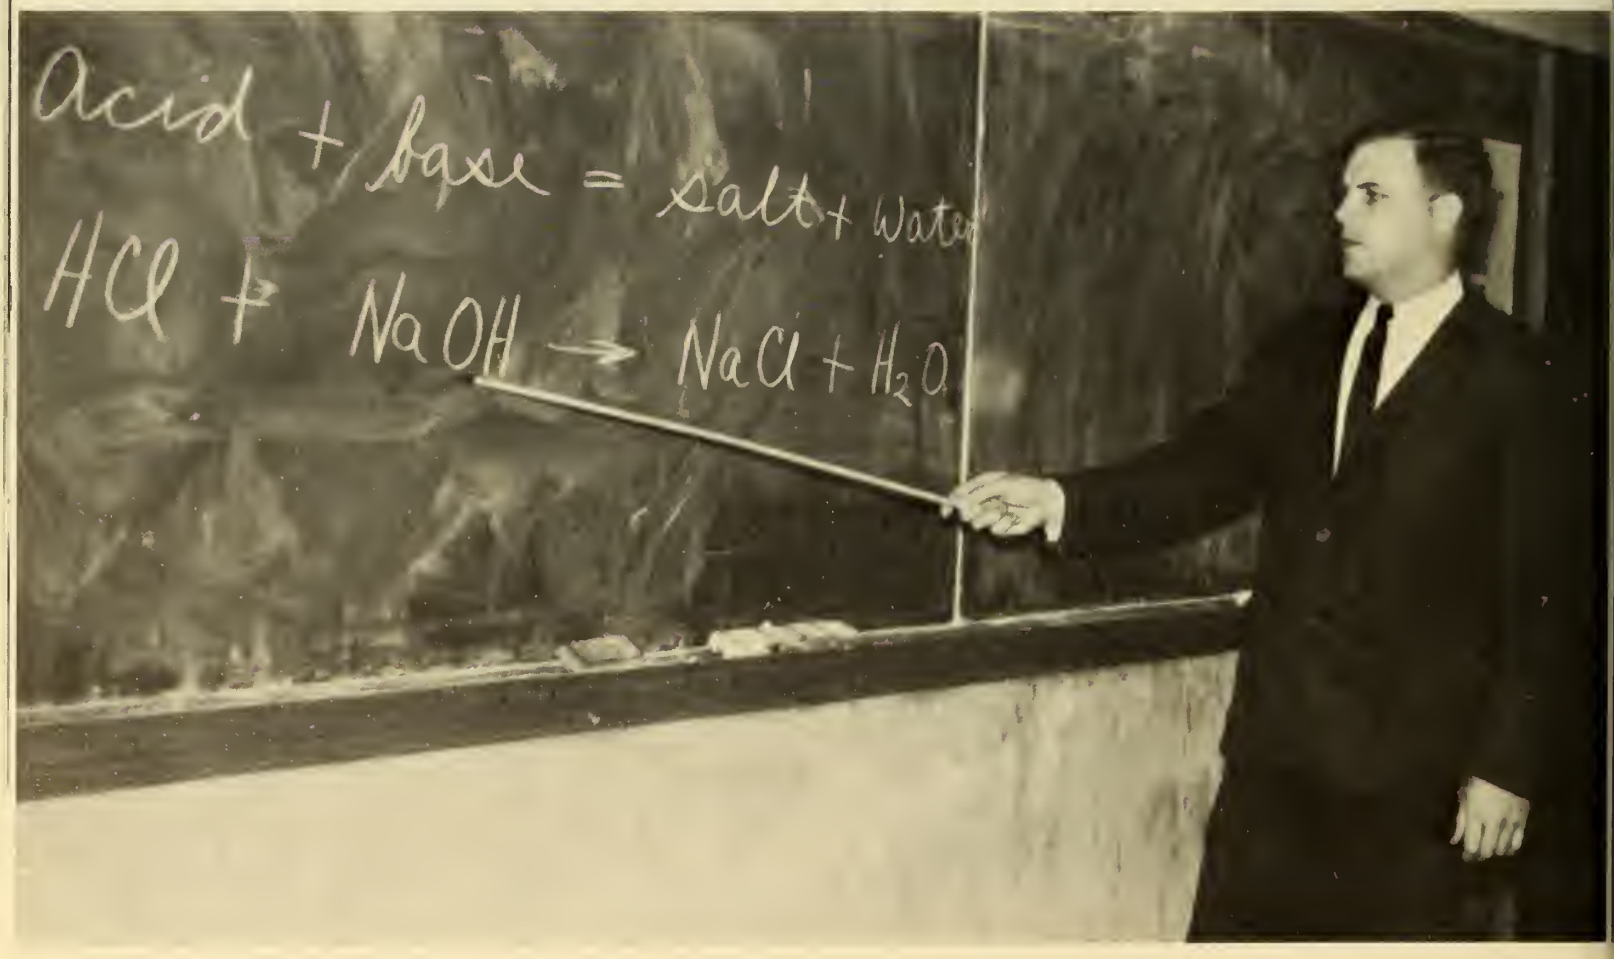
we demand responsibility

to make our own decisions—

and mistakes—

because tomorrow is here.

Today, if all goes well,



we are teachers—

the spotlight is on us.

The tension builds . . .

exams, papers, lesson plans, observations . . .

It's too much . . .

we want to EXPLODE,

to forget,

to be free,

alone . . .

but not for long,

for we are chameleons:

teacher,

student,

bored,

inspired,

follower,

leader,

angry,

sad,

rebel,

conformist,

exhilarated,

frustrated.

We wonder still who we are,

what this education experience is all about . . .

is it the hustle and bustle

of banquet and ball,

speeches and toasts . . .

is it the credits, degrees,

hoods, and gowns . . .

or is it us?
